Tocqueville-Acton Centro Studi e Ricerche	Rome		Italy	Email	Website	The Tocqueville Acton Centre for studies and research was founded on June 1st, 2007. It originates from the union of the Lord Acton Centre for Documentation (created in 2007 by the Novae Terrae Foundation and directed by Professor Flavio Felice), and the Tocqueville Study Centre (born in 2006 as part of the Alexis de Tocqueville Association and chaired by Dr. Fabio Giuseppe Angelini). The aim of the merge was to create an independent think tank with a Catholic and liberal outlook; its objectives initially were: - to provide a meeting point for academic professors, intellectuals and business executives with an interest in philosophical, historical, epistemological, political, economical, juridical and cultural issues, connected to an anthropological perspective and to the principles of the Social Doctrine of the Church; - to foster a more knowledgeable and aware public discussion in the fields of market competition, economic development, environment, energy, liberalisation and privatisation, finance and public accounts, media and information, technology and innovation, schooling and academia, welfare and political-institutional reforms. The underlying idea was to create a centre with a Catholic and liberal outlook, in order to elaborate different perspectives on various political and cultural issues; until then, such a centre was not to be found in our country.	mailto:felice@tocqueville-acton.org	felice@tocqueville-acton.org	http://www.tocqueville-acton.org

Latin American and Iberian Law and Economics Association				Email	Website	Established in 1995, the Latin American and Iberian Law and Economics Association (Alacde) is a private, nonprofit organization. A principal activity of the Alacde, which groups all the main countries of Latin America, the Caribbean and Iberia, is the organization's annual law-and-economics meeting. This meeting is designed to provide an open-door forum for academic exchanges beyond borders and to enhance cross-border understanding in the legal profession. Founded by a group of legal scholars led by Andrés Roemer, Edgardo Buscaglia and Robert Cooter, its stated mission is to promote awareness, advancement and development of legal research employing the tools of economic analysis; and to keep law schools in Latin America, the Caribbean and Iberia abreast with the latest findings and ground-breaking work in the field. The organization maintains this web site, disseminates research, teaching tools, and information on law and economics, translates scholarly literature in the field into Spanish and Portuguese, and collaborates with others to promote inter-university cooperation between the law faculties of Europe and the Americas.	hacciarri@gmail.com	http://www.alacde.org/
